Introduction

As an international intergovernmental organisation created in 1949 and whose headquarters are located in Strasbourg (France), the Council of Europe has 47 member States: Albania, Andorra, Armenia, Austria, Azerbaijan, Belgium, Bosnia and Herzegovina, Bulgaria, Croatia, Cyprus, Czech Republic, Denmark, Estonia, Finland, France, Georgia, Germany, Greece, Hungary, Iceland, Ireland, Italy, Latvia, Liechtenstein, Lithuania, Luxembourg, Malta, Republic Moldova, Monaco, Montenegro, Netherlands, Norway, Poland, Portugal, Romania, Russian Federation, San Marino, Serbia, Slovakia, Slovenia, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, “the former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia”, Turkey, Ukraine and the United Kingdom. Its main objectives are to promote democracy, human rights and the rule of law and to seek common solutions to the main problems facing European society today.

The European Landscape Convention was adopted by the Committee of Ministers of the Council of Europe on 19 July 2000 in Strasbourg and opened for signature of the member States of the Organisation in Florence (Italy) on 20 October 2000, with the aim to promote European landscape protection, management and planning and to organise European cooperation. It is the first international treaty to be exclusively devoted to all aspects of European landscape. The Convention applies to the entire territory of the Parties and covers natural, rural, urban and peri-urban areas. It concerns landscapes that might be considered outstanding as well as every day or degraded landscapes. To date, 38 Council of Europe member States have ratified the Convention: Andorra, Armenia, Azerbaijan, Belgium, Bosnia and Herzegovina, Bulgaria, Croatia, Cyprus, Czech Republic, Denmark, Finland, France, Georgia, Greece, Hungary, Ireland, Italy, Latvia, Lithuania, Luxembourg, Republic of Moldova, Montenegro, Netherlands, Norway, Poland, Portugal, Romania, San Marino, Serbia, Slovak Republic, Slovenia, Spain, Switzerland, Sweden, “the former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia”, Turkey, Ukraine and the United Kingdom. Two states have signed the Convention: Iceland and Malta.

Organised by the Council of Europe on a regular basis, the Meetings of the Workshops for the implementation of the European Landscape Convention are an opportunity to present new concepts and achievements in connection with the Convention and represent a genuine forum for sharing practices and ideas. Special emphasis is given to the experiences of the state hosting the meeting.

The following Council of Europe Meetings of the Workshops for the implementation of the European Landscape Convention have previously been organised:

- 23-24 May 2002, Strasbourg (France): “Landscape policies: contribution to the well-being of European citizens and to sustainable development (social, economic, cultural and ecological approaches); Landscape identification, evaluation and quality objectives, using cultural and natural resources; Awareness-raising, training and education; Innovative tools for the protection, management and planning of landscape”

[The proceedings of the meetings are published in the Council of Europe’s “European Spatial Planning and Landscape” series and are available on the Council of Europe’s European Landscape Convention website: http://www.coe.int/t/dg4/cultureheritage/heritage/Landscape/Publications_en.asp]

Organisers

The Council of Europe would like to thank the Government of Andorra for its cooperation and hospitality. In addition, the Council of Europe would like to thank the Ministry of Environment Finland, the Ministry of Local Government and Modernisation, Department of Planning of Norway, the Swedish National Heritage Board and the Swiss Federal Office of the Environment, Forestry and Landscape for their support. Moreover, the organisation also wishes to thank the Landscape Observatory of Catalonia, Spain for its technical collaboration.

Objectives

The Meeting aims to analyse experiences, achieved or ongoing, of transfrontier co-operation. The European Landscape Convention indeed states that “The Parties shall encourage transfrontier co-operation on local and regional level and, wherever necessary, prepare and implement joint landscape programmes” (Article 9 – Transfrontier landscapes). The Recommendation CM/Rec(2008)3 of the Committee of Ministers to member States on the guidelines for the implementation of the European Landscape Convention considers that “Transfrontier co-operation may result in joint landscape protection, management and planning programmes and take the form of instruments and measures agreed between the authorities (different administrative levels and general and sectoral competences) and relevant stakeholders on both sides of the border”. It notes that “Transfrontier co-operation is possible not only between neighbouring states but also between neighbouring regions and communities in the same state which have different landscape policies, on the basis either of territorial contiguity or common features”.

Meeting point: 8.30 a.m. Congress Centre of Andorra la Vella, Plaça del Poble, s/núm, AD500 – Andorre – Tel.: (+376) 874 500, Fax: (+376) 874 501

Despite living in a mountainous and remote enclave, Andorrans have always sought exchanges with neighbouring countries in order to enhance their everyday lives. During our visit we will pass through diverse Andorran landscapes marked by economic activities which are always linked to bordering countries and have evolved over the course of time.

Morning: Valira de Oriente Valley

Departing from Andorra la Vella we will travel through the urban landscapes of the towns of Escaldes-Engordany and Encamp, among the most populous of Andorra, and head towards Canillo and its rural and natural landscapes, before moving into mixed landscapes (natural with human activities) in one of the largest skiable areas in the Pyrenees, now frequented by tourists from all over the world.

Our route peaks at Col d'Envalira (2400m high) where we can take in views of Andorra's mountains and glacial cirques in natural high-mountain landscapes to the south and the transfrontier landscapes on the border with France to the north. We will also look down on the town of Pas de la Casa and the Ariège Valley in France. These high-mountain landscapes are part-natural and part-man-made (with ski resorts), bearing an imprint of urbanisation developed through major trade activity due to the border location of Pas de la Casa and its position at the foot of the ski slopes.

Return to the municipality of la Massana, in the Valira del Norte and Riu d'Arinsal valleys.

13:00 – Lunch/sampling, prepared with Andorran gastronomic produce locally sourced around the “Farga Rossell”, a renovated former forge dating from the 17th century, the last vestige of the country's ironwork cultural heritage and the starting point of the Iron Route. Under its agricultural policy and the National Landscape Strategy the Government encourages the maintaining of rural landscapes by helping local producers to diversify and promote their produce.

Afternoon: Valira del Norte Valley

In the Middle Ages, transhumance and agricultural fairs provided Andorra's earlier inhabitants with a backdrop for trading cattle and buying foodstuffs that were difficult to obtain in a harsh mountain climate. From the 16th century onwards and right up to the end of the 19th century, semi-industrial activity developed with the mining of iron ore, its primary transformation in the country's forges and its transportation to larger towns in neighbouring countries. The Valira del Norte valley still has many vestiges of activities relating to the transportation and transformation of iron, set in traditional farming landscapes.

There are two visit options on offer:

Option A: Departing from la Massana, transportation to the start of the Iron Route. The journey will lead us through natural and rural landscapes and villages which have retained the country's traditional agricultural character (Ordino, Ansalonga, La Cortinada, Arans, Llorts), with their Romanesque churches (11th and 12th centuries). Continuation along the Iron Route on foot (4 km – 1 hour approximately) to discover this ancient road used to transport iron ore and coal to the forges. Sculptures created by various international artists are dotted along the route in an exceptional natural setting (<http://visitandorra.com/fr/winter/itineraires/sentier-de-randonnee-ruta-del-ferro/>).

The bus will pick up the participants at the end of the route and take them back to Ordino. Possibility of a stop for a self-guided tour of Ordino if remaining time permits. Trainers or light walking boots are strongly recommended.

Option B: Departing from la Massana, transportation to Ordino. The main centre of the municipality bearing the same name, this village is a much sought-after place of residence today. Its ancient centre and modern facilities that remain in keeping with its traditional character provide a greatly appreciated living environment. Ordino was once the seat of two big forge-owning families. The participants will be able to visit the home of the Areny-Plandolit family, which controlled much of the metal industry. This stately home, built in the 17th century, was restored in 1972 and turned into a museum. It contains furniture and artefacts reflecting the lifestyle of the family, with items specific to mountain life and others brought back from towns in Spain. The facade is also of great interest, with a balcony dating from 1849, made in the owner's own Forge. An adjacent building was constructed and fitted out as a natural history museum at the beginning of the 20th century and now houses an auditorium. The family also had ornamental gardens laid out along the rock, with remarkable box trees and plane trees (<http://visitandorra.com/fr/lieux-et-services/musee-maison-d-areny-plandolit/>). Possibility of a self-guided tour of Ordino if time allows.

Return to the hotel at 18:30 and free evening.
